COMMISSIONERS MEET MONDAY

The Commissioners' Court of Medina County met in regular session at 10 A. M. Monday, October 12, with all members present. In addition to routine matters the following business was transacted:

The Court considered the offer of the Camden Fire Insurance Association of Camden, N. J., in the amount of $175.00 as settlement for loss to the courthouse during the storm on August 30, 1942. After due consideration the Commissioners voted unanimously to accept the offer and instructed the County Judge to execute the proper papers with the Company and receive payment in the amount stated. Part of the courthouse roof and the weather-vane were blown off during the recent storm.

The petition of F. A. Graff and twenty-two other citizens of Medina County was heard. The petition requested of the Court that a cement slab be constructed on the Moebius Road where the road crosses the Liveoak Slough. After due consideration the Court granted the petition and request, conditioned upon the availability of material necessary to construct the slab and also conditioned on labor being available for constructing the slab.

The Court also received two plats and finding them in accordance with requirement for recording them, ordered that they be placed on record in the County's Record of Plats and Maps in the County Clerk's office. The plats were of Louis and F. J. Carle showing Blocks N and M, adjoining on west side of the town of D'Hanis, and of the Barkuloo Addition to the town of Hondo.

The written notice of resignation of E. L. Brod of D'Hanis, Texas, as Constable of Justice Precinct No. 4 of Medina County was received and accepted by the Court. It was also ordered that notice of the Court's action be given to Mr. Brod and his bondsmen.

Monthly bills were received, examined and ordered paid.

HONDO OWLS TO MEET THE EAGLE PASS EAGLES

With three wins and but a single loss on record, the Hondo Owls travel to Eagle Pass Friday, October 16, to meet the undefeated Eagles. Coached by Bob Martin, who produced a Regional championship team at Mission last year, the Eagles promise to give the Owls one of their hardest games on schedule. It will be the first meeting between the two schools, although Coaches Bridges and Martin are familiar with each other's tactics having met for regional honors last year at Mission.

Bridges is none too optimistic over the prospects for Friday night's game. Several squad members are nursing injuries received in the Pearl-sail game last week, which may keep them on the sidelines. However, the Owls are anxious to get revenge on Coach Martin, since they suffered one of their worst defeats at the hands of his Mission team last year.

October 30, the Owls will again show on home territory when they open district play with the Uvalde Coyotes.

NEW PASTOR FOR BAPTIST CHURCH

At a meeting of the members of the Hondo Baptist Church Wednesday night October 7, Rev. Ralph Gresham of San Antonio was called to serve as pastor of the church. The pastorate has been vacant since the former minister, Rev. L. V. Garrison, resigned to become a Chaplain in the U. S. Army. Services, however, have been conducted regularly each week with visiting preachers filling the pulpit.

Rev. Gresham was formerly pastor of Mitchell Terrace Baptist Church in San Antonio. He will move to Hondo next week and will be joined later by his wife and daughter.

Regular services at the Baptist Church are as follows:

10:00 A. M. Sunday School.
11:00 A. M. preaching service.
7:00 P. M. B. T. U.
8:00 P. M. preaching service.

You are cordially invited to all services in this church.

LT. MEYER SENT TO FORT BLISS

First Lieutenant Walter B. Meyer, who reported for duty with the Medical Corps at Fort Sam Houston, Monday of this week, was unassigned for several days which he spent with his family here. Thursday he received his orders to report for active duty at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas, and left by train the same day for his station. His family will remain in Hondo for the present.

Lt. Meyer's entrance in the Army this week makes the record one hundred percent for his parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Meyer of Hondo, whose three sons are now in the services of Uncle Sam. Their eldest son, Captain John Henry Meyer, is with the Medical Corps at Camp Barkley, Texas, and their youngest son, Sgt. Hugh Meyer, is at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Elton Leinweber of the Leinweber Playboys orchestra reports his band having frequent calls to play for dances and has been favored by especially large crowds at their Knippa engagements.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

You won't be able to amble far down Main Street until you will meet somebody who is dying to tell you what this country needs. To relieve the monotony I will spout off and tell you what you don't need.

To start with, I would say one thing we are overstocked on is indispensable men. Mr. Napoleon had France believing for quite a spell that it could not get along without him. It turned out otherwise. Old raucous Adolph has been using the same hooey. Gandhi got himself a goat and a couple of grape vines and glamourized himself into something or other indispensable.

And if you care to get away from indispensable people in politics you could research into indispensable program arrangers for soap, on the radio. One of the wonders of the age is how they sell soap at all after a prospect has listened to poor John and sorrowful Lizzie pant and palpitate through a half-hour of misery.

Start a contest on "WHAT WE DON'T NEED," says Henry, trying to be smart and humorous, and if you do so, he says, my first entry in the contest is for "fewer columnists."

Yours with the low down,

JO SERRA.

STUDY YOUR BALLOT

Elsewhere in this paper is a sample of the ballot to be used in Hondo Justice of the Peace Precinct No. 1, at the general election to be held on November 3rd.

The ticket will be the same for the entire county in so far as it applies to state, district and county candidates; the only changes being made to conform to the various Commissioner and Justice of the Peace precincts.

The ballot proper calls for little study, there being only three parties represented—Democratic, Republican and People's Unity.

The latter is new to this writer, both as to party and the personnel of the few candidates it offers; its membership probably expects to cut a very minor figure in the results.

The County ticket, as usual, is in the Independent column.

This will necessitate going from the Democratic or Republican column, as may be your choice, over to the Independent column in completing the preparation of your ticket.

Of course, you scratch all for whom you do not wish to vote and leave only the names of those for whom you wish to vote.

After disposing of your state ticket there is one County office—that of Sheriff—where you must scratch one and leave only the one you wish to vote for; otherwise, if you leave one unscratched, your voice will count for neither.

In Commissioner Precinct No. 1 this is also true, since two are running for that office; and in Justice Precinct No. 1, two names must be scratched since three candidates are running for the same office.

At the bottom of the ballot, arranged in four columns, are five proposed constitutional amendments to be considered.

They should have our special attention.

A superficial glance at them makes one ask himself where is the need for any of them, but so far we have not definitely decided to vote against any save the first one.

Definitely it is out with us.

Starting out for a good purpose, it tags on a scheme to increase the bonded debt of the state and should in our judgment, be condemned.

Why the two propositions should be tied together does not appear save in the suspicion of a sinister purpose to slip one over the electorate and get them to lay down a gap for the benefit of speculators in bonds who profit by the taxpayers' poverty.

But it is your vote—study your ballot for yourself.

period at Hondo, are such subjects as drill, calisthenics, and military courtesy.

These men who aspire to become glider pilots, are from all walks of life. Students from California to New York, farmers from the middle west, salesmen, lawyers, and clerks from all over the nation make up this group. One candidate left his business of building trailers; another quit his job as a grocery clerk; one used to haul mail; while another operated a bulk gas station. Also represented in the group are an embalmer, truck drivers, a typesetter, a florist, and a milkman.

The officer in charge of the recruit training is Captain M. R. Wagner, who came from Kelly Field to be squadron commander when the AAF Navigation School opened. Adjutants to Captain Wagner are Lt. J. H. Peck, First Adjutant, and Lt. Clair Ewing and W. C. Hanna, assistant adjutants.

Another flyer to arrive for glider training is First Sergeant James W. Martin. Sergeant Martin has been a flyer for nine years and was formerly a flight leader in the Wisconsin Civil Air Patrol.

NAVIGATION SCHOOL TO COLLECT HONDO SCRAP METAL SATURDAY

Army trucks and men from the AAF Navigation School Saturday will collect piles of scrap metal and rubber in the grounds of the three Hondo schools and remove them to the field to await shipment into vital war production channels.

The scrap metal has been brought to the school grounds during the past several days by the school children of Hondo.

Elsewhere in the scrap metal collection drive now under way in Medina and Uvalde counties, ten tons of scrap iron has been obtained in Uvalde. The metal will be sold and the proceeds donated to the American Red Cross.

In Castroville, nearly 790 pounds of scrap rubber has been collected. Most of this rubber is old tires discarded by the garagemen of Castroville.

Cooperation of the people of Medina and Uvalde counties in donating their scrap metal and rubber to the collection drive was commended highly this week by Lt. Donald F. Half-jenny, post salvage and reclamation officer.

Lt. Half-jenny urges that anyone knowing of additional scrap metal and rubber notify the Hondo Chamber of Commerce or telephone 385 at the Navigation School.

HONDO SEES EXHIBITS OF AIR PLANE PARTS

The people of Hondo and vicinity knew considerably more this week about the operations of the Army Air Forces Navigation School at Hondo, after watching with interest an exhibition of airplane equipment at the Hondo railroad depot last Saturday.

The equipment attracting most attention was the radio apparatus of the plane, tuned in on the control tower on the runways of the navigation school. Remainder of the display consisted of two airplane engines, a section of the wing assembly, landing gear, and other airplane parts.

RUBBER FOOTWEAR REGULATIONS

Rubber boots and other rubber footwear no longer are frozen but now may be purchased by persons who obtain the proper rationing certificate from the local War Price and Rationing Board, the Chairman of the Medina County Board pointed out today.

Merchants are required to file their inventory reports on rubber footwear with the local War Price and Rationing Board by midnight of October 10, the Chairman said.

"During the week ending October 10th, merchants who have these inventory forms in their possession may sell rubber footwear to certificate holders," he explained, "but after that date no merchant may handle rubber footwear without the proper authorization."

In general, he said, the eligibility requirement for persons to obtain purchase certificates is that they be engaged in some occupation that contributes directly to the war effort or the public health and safety.

Merchants are allowed 60 days from October 5th in which to adjust their stocks of rubber footwear to the new rationing program. During that 60-day period merchants will be able to buy replacement stocks of rubber footwear or obtain delivery of goods already on order if they provide the jobber or manufacturer with the merchant's authorization certificate number. At the end of that 60 days, however

HONDO, TEXAS, OCT. 16, 1942

A summary of the past week's war events reviewed by The National Editorial Association Defense Advisory Committee in cooperation with the Office of Government Reports.

FOR RELEASE OCT. 13, 1942.

U. S. Army Headquarters in Britain reported that 115 American bombers, in their first large-scale daylight sweep over Occupied France, shot down 48 Nazi planes, probably destroyed 38 more and seriously damaged at least 19. Never before had so many German planes been shot down in a single operation over Western Europe as were brought down by the massed fire of the American Flying Fortresses and Consolidated B-24s. Only four American ships were lost and the crew of one was saved. The bombers made a destructive attack on the Little industrial area.

General MacArthur's Headquarters in Australia announced October 12 that Lockheed medium bombers scored two direct hits on a large Japanese seaplane tender in the Solomon Area between the Bismarck and Solomon Islands. The Navy reported October 10, a Japanese destroyer was sunk and a heavy cruiser and destroyer were damaged by American Airmen during continued enemy attempts to land reinforcements on Guadalcanal. The enemy, under cover of darkness made several small landings in the Solomons, but U. S. Forces shot down 21 Japanese planes, torpedoed a cruiser and bombed and strafed enemy troops and equipment on Guadalcanal. General MacArthur's Headquarters also announced that the biggest force of Flying Fortresses ever sent against a target in the Australian Zone made an unusually destructive raid on the largest Japanese base in this area, Rabaul. Australian Troops continued to drive the enemy back into the Owen Stanley Mountains and removed the threat to the Allied base of Port Moresby.

From new bases in the Andromeda Group of the Aleutians, Army bombers, escorted by Aircobra and lightning fighters, kept Japanese-held Kiska—less than an hour's flying away—under "continual fire" during the week. The Navy reported aerial reconnaissance showed the Japanese apparently had given up their hold on both Attu and Agattu in the Western Aleutians and concentrated on Kiska.

—WSS—

Meantime battle lines are already forming for the next major struggle on the domestic front—manpower allocation for all wartime demands; in the armed services, in the factory, on the farm. Congress considers the time ripe for a definite policy for the determination of man and woman power in each division. The armed services want supreme authority in the hands of Selective Service. Organized labor opposes this program in favor of control through U. S. Employment Service and the War Manpower Commission, as the union powerhouse, seeing a threat to its existence, wants to maintain its influence in administrative circles.

—WSS—

The new tax bill will not be sent to the President until after elections according to best opinion at the Capitol. Treasury officials, meanwhile, are drafting a new bill which is expected in January shortly after the new Congress convenes. This bill will include a sales tax and it is predicted that it will jump individual income tax rates as high as those of Canada.

—WSS—

Realignment and revitalization of WPB are almost complete. Washington considers it as a master stroke by Nelson, who not only has fitted first class men to key jobs but has worked out of conflicts with the armed services.

—WSS—

Rationing of meats and dairy products will be under way by Christmas. Reductions of 21 percent in civilian meat supplies will necessitate a limit on meat consumption of 2½ pounds per person per week. First step in dairy rationing will be an allocation-curtailment of milk to ice cream, butter, cheese, and other dairy products industries.

Shortly before Christmas OPA will distribute 150 million of its new "all-purpose" rationing books designed to provide a swift means of rationing any article or commodity the instant the danger of critical shortage appears.

—WSS—

The Army and Navy are tightening up on commissioning of civilians. Temporary freeze orders have been issued in some sections. In the Army air force alone more than 200,000 applications for commissions are pending. Few will be granted in the near future.

—WSS—

President Roosevelt will receive from Congress soon a set of amendments liberalizing relief and benefits under soldiers and sailors Civil Relief Act of 1940. Among other things the amount of insurance which the Government agrees to protect for a serviceman is increased from $5,000 to $10,000.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Effective at once, there will be three Masses offered each Sunday as follows: St. John's Church at 6:00 A. M. and 9 A. M.; in Our Lady of Sorrows Church, 10:30 A. M. (Central War Time).

Holy Days of Obligation—6:00 A. M. and 9:00 A. M. (Central War Time.) Communion Sunday for the Holy Name Society—2nd Sunday of every month.

Price Administrator Henderson announced a new alternative pricing formula, effective October 15, for the following groups of food products: breakfast cereals, canned fish, coffee, sugar, cooking and salad oils, canned vegetables, dried fruit, lard, rice, hydrogenated shortenings and other shortenings. The action, which will result in "slightly higher prices" for consumers, was taken to relieve pressure on wholesalers and retailers caught between March quotations under the general regulation and the amounts they must pay producers. Mr. Henderson said the groups of food affected represent about 15 percent of all food purchased in the nation's 575,000 food stores. Mr. Henderson said American housewives should check the prices of food brought under price control last week by making a list of the prices paid from September 28 to October 2 for the various items of the same quantity and quality.

Civilian Supply

The War Production Board cut the production of flashlight batteries 50 percent and other types of dry cell batteries 10 percent from last year's levels. The Board announced that on construction using non-metallic materials and equipment to insulate buildings so that fuel can be saved may be undertaken without specific authorization. The order will not apply to construction begun prior to January 1, 1943. No heavy forged hand tools, such as bars, hammers, picks, tongs, etc., which do not conform to the size, type, grade, finish, weight and quality established by WPB, may be produced except on approval of the Board. The WPB ruled that plastic tubes are not acceptable as turn-ins for new tubes of toothpaste and shaving cream, and cut the percentage of tin which may be used in toothpaste tubes and shaving cream tubes.

War Communications

The Board of War Communications ordered long distance telephone calls relating to the war effort and public safety be given priority over all other calls, effective November 1. Calls concerning moving armed forces during combat operations, urgent orders for the armed forces, immediate dangers due to presence of the enemy, disasters materially affecting the war effort or public security, will get first priority. Operators will give precedence to priority calls at all times.

War Crimes

President Roosevelt stated "the barbaric crimes being committed by the enemy against civilian populations in occupied countries" are continuing, and "I now declare it to be the intention of the Government that the successful close of the war shall include provision for the surrender to the United Nations of war criminals . . . The perpetrators of these crimes shall answer for them before courts of law."

War Taxes

The Senate passed and sent to conference with the House the 1942 War Revenue Bill which the Treasury estimated will yield $9 billion in new revenue annually. Of this total approximately $1,700 million would be refundable because the bill provides an extra 5 percent "victory tax" on all individual incomes above $12 a week—part of which would be refunded as a credit on other taxes a year later or as a post-war refund.

The New Bill will make 42 to 44 million persons subject to Federal taxes, compared with 28 million at present, and will bring total Federal revenue up to 26 billion a year.

Rationing

Price Administrator Henderson announced a five-step Government plan to keep every passenger car "rolling for essential mileage" throughout the war: (1) Rationing of used tires and recaps, and new tires now in stock, to provide as far as possible the minimum essential mileage to each of the nation's passenger cars; (2) actual control of each car's mileage through the rationing of gasoline to prevent unnecessary driving and to hold the national average down to 5,000 miles per car per year; (3) compulsory periodic inspection of all tires to guard against abuse and to prevent wear beyond the point where they can be recapped; (4) denial of gasoline and of tire replacement to cars whose drivers persistently violate the national 35-mile-an-hour speed limit; (5) capacity use, through car sharing, of every car on every trip so far as possible.

Fuel oil consumers in the 30 states affected by oil rationing will be able to obtain their ration application forms from their dealers soon after October 13 and should fill them out as soon as possible and mail or deliver them to local war price and rationing boards, OPA said. Fuel oil ration coupons for private dwellings will be worth 10 gallons each for the first heating period—October and November—the OPA announced. Coupon sheets for the entire five periods of the heating season will be issued shortly, OPA said, but only those for the first period will be assigned a definite gallonage value in order to "ensure flexibility" in fuel oil allotments.

Maximum Prices and Rents

The OPA reported October 11 that it is extending the Government rent-control program to embrace practically the entire urban population of the country, and orders reducing and stabilizing rents on November 1 for all living quarters of 97 more defense-rental areas are being issued immediately. The orders bring under Federal control the residential rents in every large city in the country with the exception of New York City. Rents are being cut back to the levels prevailing last March 1 in all the areas except one—Orlando, Florida—where the maximum rent

MERRITT RELEASED ON $1500 APPEAL BOND

Vernon Merritt was released from the Uvalde jail Tuesday under $1500 appeal bond to await action by the Court of Criminal Appeals after Judge K. K. Woodley had overruled a motion for a new trial. Mr. Merritt was convicted by a Uvalde jury on Sept. 4th on a charge of murder without malice in connection with the death of Lt. Chas. A. Smith, who was shot in Bandera on July 4th.

CASTLEBERRY-WIEMERS

Miss Leora Wiemers and Cleo K. Castleberry were united in marriage in a ceremony performed by Rev. W. A. Bowen at the home of the bride last Friday evening. The bride wore a tan crepe dress with brown accessories. Miss Lennell Seary was maid of honor and Sgt. Kenneth Powers was best man. Only the immediate family witnessed the ceremony. The bride is the charming and talented daughter of Mrs. John Wiemers and has been employed at the Corner Drug Store. The young couple went to Beaumont for their honeymoon.

LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Monday, October 12, 1942

HOGS—Estimated salable and total receipts $800. Monday's hog trade again proved to be a very uneven affair with prices through the morning trade listed mainly steady with Friday's close, or 25-50¢ lower than best prices that day. Closing trade, however, appeared weak to as much as 25¢ lower than the close Friday. A spread of $14.00-14.25 took Good and Choice 180-270 lb. butchers with the maximum figure listed as the day's top. Late trade found most sales coming in at $14.00. Good and Choice 160-180 lbs. cleared $13.50-14.00 and 140-160 lbs. at $13.00-13.50. Sows claimed $13.00-13.25 in most cases but extreme heavy and wasty kinds dropped to $12.50. Feeder pigs looked mostly steady at $13.00-13.25.

CATTLE—Estimated salable and total receipts 8,200; CALVES 4,500. Monday's cattle and calf receipts were the largest in several years. Receipts consisted mainly of slaughter cows

QUINT NOTES

And Pharaoh called Joseph's name Zaphnath-peneah; and he gave him to wife Asenath, the daughter of Poti-phera priest of On. Gen. 41:45.

A new epoch and economical course has started in Egypt. Public attention is focused on the new prime minister, Joseph. The king had made a seemingly rash, yet very deliberate, decision. His council, the members of his cabinet, simply called "his servants" in verse 17, had consented. Both parties had detected something of the "Spirit of God" in the young man. Something extraordinary, supernatural. Something that convinced them that this man not only knows future developments but also has the qualifications to cope with the new situation impending. Something that made him the man of the hour. Yet, no doubt, in responsible quarters, in the industrial centers, high finance, business marts, agricultural factions, labor groups and even among the common rank and file, speculation was rife, whether the new appointee was not bothered with hallucinations, silly delusions about the future, since everything was in a normal state; and if things should take a turn for the worse, as predicted, whether he were able to keep the ship of state at an even keel or run it on the rocks in the breakers of chaos and confusion. The odds were positively against him.

And Joseph is a study in "behaviorism." His reaction, his attitude, is almost uncanny. No acceptance speech, not a word of gratitude or surprise. If he was overcome with emotion or "troubled with thickening fancies" about inrushing glories, in no wise did he show it. No sign of self-admiration, of cringing for favors received, or defiance for his hecklers, of timidity about the complicated task or of reluctance to give time and talent for his erstwhile tormentors, when often he could have lamented, "No change, no pause, no hope, yet I endure."

Calmness personified. Has he a rigid temperament? Putting on a theatrical pose? A happy-go-lucky disposition? Momentarily stunned and rendered speechless? Too young and inexperienced that he failed to get the real proportions of the world ahead? A variety of emotions shooting through heart and brain, to be sure.

Had he lived at a later period, he might have studied and compared the miraculous career-making of the Lord for a Moses, the pick-up from the bulrushes of the Nile, protege of the king's daughter, lonely deserted shepherd, then evolve to be the greatest liberator, legislator and statesman history knows of; or for David, the singer and shepherd of Zetlchhem, and then, via giant Goliath and king Saul, establishing a kingdom of eternal significance; or for a Paul, the ruthless persecutor of Christ's adherents, and finally becoming the greatest worker in the kingdom of God. Joseph had none of these for guidance and orientation. No need of them. Though thoroughly amazed, he trusted the ways of his God, and, most likely, he heard a familiar voice, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid.

The king himself, however, seemed to get nervous qualms over his appointment. After all, royal society the aristocracy, with its language customs and formalities, etiquette and traditions, was a power behind the throne. No one could scale that social wall by force. No one could enter those inner circles without common consent. Poor Joseph! His name might live in every mouth, but he had no prestige, nothing of "the bubble reputation," no popularity.

Mr. Roy Hathaway, the new Choir Director, is making a fine start with the Choir, and wants any who sing to join him in the Choir. Special music, Sunday.

with the high-falutins, no rank because of glorious performance, no name, no peerage, nothing to recommend him to this royal coterie and everything disdainful and scorned. "Twas pitiful, 'twas wondrous pitiful."

But the new prime minister must have social recognition, social equality. And the ways of the Lord are not barricaded by petty trivialities or flashy nonentities. The king finds the avenue of escape from the dilemma: A new name for his appointee—we'll come back to it—and his marriage to the daughter of a priest in the chief city and a member of the most powerful caste or party in the land. "Unborn Tomorrow and dead Yesterday." Joseph will need all the light and strength of God, as you and I.

On the sick list we find Mr. C. H. Foss, Mrs. Bertha Thomas and Mr. Anton Folk has just finished his assignment in this line. With the sunny days and cool nights, and a good deal of exposure and exertion in pulling the corn that has bowed to the last storm and now lies flat on the ground, and with the many "vaccinations" the pickers are getting from scorpions, we are surprised that the sick list is not bigger.

An advance notice for our Mission festival on November the 1st. The German service in the morning will be in charge of the local pastor. For the English evening service at 8, the Rev. M. Lorring of Hondo has promised his assistance. You will not miss these occasions. And you will not refuse your fair share for the work in God's kingdom. Practically all the foreign mission work is now resting upon the shoulders and on the responsibility of our American churches. It's a challenge that the Lord puts to us squarely and solemnly. Dare we fail Him?

The Luther League is somewhat up against it with the monthly programs of late. The female singers of the church choir are handicapped in various ways from attending the weekly rehearsals. The male chorus has taken over the greater number of vocal selections last Sunday, and thanks to them and a few juvenile voices, we were able to pull through and present something worth keeping to our members and visitors. The program for November lists these numbers: Select readings, Miss Elsie Boehle, Mrs. Arnold Lindeburg, Henry Buss, Jr.; vocal selections, Mr. Elmer Nietenhofer, Mrs. John G. Bohlen, Mrs. Alfred Winkler; instrumental selection, Mrs. Alfred Saathoff. Let's rally around the good cause.

NOVELLE LAMBERT BECOMES BRIDE OF SGT. ACKLEY

The marriage of Miss Mary Novelle Lambert of Hondo and Sgt. Douglas W. Ackley of the Army Air Forces Navigation School of Hondo was solemnized Saturday afternoon, October 10, at two o'clock in the Post Chapel. The Chaplain, Lt. George W. Schardt, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The candle-lighted altar was adorned with vases of white gladioluses. The nuptial music was given by Mrs. George W. Schardt, who played "Liebestraum" preceding the entrance of the wedding party and "Because" during the ceremony. She also played the traditional bridal marches.

Miss Ola Jenkins was maid of honor and the only bridesmaid was Miss Norma Jane Bless. Best man was Cpl. Steve Wykoski and Pvt. Bob O'Dya was groomsman.

The bride wore a powder blue velvet gown, a navy blue felt pillbox trimmed with fringed bows and a blue veil, and accessories of navy blue gabardine. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace and her corsage was of gardenias.

Miss Jenkins was dressed in black velvet with touches of white lace. Her accessories were black and she wore a corsage of white chrysanthemums. Miss Bless wore a brown velvet ensemble with bright green accessories and her flowers were white chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony, Sgt. and Mrs. Ackley went on a brief bridal trip. They are now living in the Leslie Holloway home in Hondo.

The bride is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Harlee of Hondo with whom she made her home. She attended Hondo High School and a San Antonio business college. She is now employed in the Post Engineers office at the Navigation School. Sgt. Ackley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ackley of Dallas, Texas. He is with the Special Service Office of the Navigation School here and is leader of the AAFNS band.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Jungman had word from their son, Anthony, of the U. S. Navy that on his frequent week-end trips to cities in and around his station at North Island, California, he recently met and had his picture taken with movie star, Marlene Dietrich. To prove it, he is sending the picture home to his parents. Anthony has been stationed near San Diego, Calif. for 14 months and has not been home in over a year.

O. M. K. AND T CLUB NEWS

DEVINE, Oct. 10.—The O. M. K. and T. Home Demonstration Club met in regular session Oct. 9th at the home of the President, Mrs. Chas. Schlagle. Miss Velma Hambleton our county agent, was with us and at 10:30 A. M. we were making hominy. At noon a covered dish luncheon was served to Miss Hambleton and nine members. She demonstrated a baking dish ensemble with hominy as the main ingredient. Following the luncheon hour she instructed us in the art of clever Christmas card making: home made, original and inexpensive. Then going on with the pre-Christmas preparations under her supervision we cut out patterns for aprons, hot pads, cut outs, bean bags, luncheon sets, etc., our motto being "A homemade Christmas". Miss Hambleton's practical demonstrations completed, the club held a short business meeting. Election of officers for the ensuing year was as follows:

Mrs. Chas. Schlagle, President (re-election).

Mrs. Forrest Rotramel, Vice President (re-election).

Mrs. T. A. Matney, Secretary.

Mrs. Lollyd Rotramel, Treasurer.

Mrs. Walter Kirby, Sunshine Chairman.

Mrs. W. H. Noel, Council Delegate.

Mrs. Frank Jones, Alternate Delegate.

The club adjourned to meet November 13th at the home of Mrs. Forrest Rotramel.

FRANK KILLOUGH DIES SUDDENLY

George Franklin Killough died suddenly of an acute heart attack about 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon October 10, 1942. His remains were buried in Oakwood cemetery at 5 o'clock the following day. Rev. R. F. Davis of the Hondo Methodist Church conducted a brief service at the Horger funeral chapel, after which interment was made according to Masonic rites, the local lodge officiating. The pallbearers were: Jack Fusselman, Ed Harilee, Clarence Van Fleet, Ondo Richter, James R. Duncan and George Schuele.

The deceased was born in limestone County, Texas, on Sept. 30, 1882, the son of Mr. Geo. P. Killough and wife, Fannie Roberts Killough. His parents moved to Devine in 1885, where he grew to manhood. In 1912 he was happily married to Miss Ethel Crabtree of Hondo. They lived at Devine until 1916 when they moved to Marfa where he worked as a Section Foreman on the S. P. R. R. until 1929, when they moved to Hondo where he has since resided. He was bereaved of his wife on March 20, 1938. They had no children.

His nearest of surviving kin are two brothers, John and Jeff Killough both of Devine, and one sister, Mrs. Charles Thompson of Charlotte. Several nieces and nephews are also among those who mourn his loss. Mr. Killough was a quiet unassuming man, the type that makes for good neighbors, true friends and law-abiding citizenship. Those who knew him best appreciated his sterling character and sincerely mourn their loss.

NEWCOMER DIES SUDDENLY

Clyde Russell Owens died of heart failure between six and six-thirty o'clock Saturday morning, September 26, 1942. His death was a shock to all as he seemed in the best of health. Deceased and his wife had arrived from Yorktown, Texas, on Tuesday afternoon before to make their home in Hondo, and he expected to go to work at the air field the coming week.

Mr. Owens was 38 years and 10 months of age. He was born and lived several years in Cass County, Texas. He is survived by two children of a previous marriage. He also has four brothers and four sisters, one of the sisters, Mrs. H. H. Ward, being a resident of Hondo.

Funeral services were held at the Horger funeral chapel and interment made in Oakwood cemetery Sunday afternoon, Sept. 27. Elder Newell of San Antonio conducted the services. —Contributed.

LOSES HER FATHER

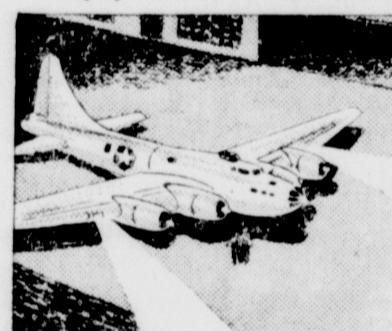

Mrs. Charles J. Monkhouse of Hondo has the sympathy of all her friends in the loss of her father, Mr. Frank D. Hindes, who died Friday, October 9, 1942, at his home in Hindes, Texas. Mr. Hindes, a prominent Southwest Texas ranchman, was 72 years of age. Services were held Saturday October 10, at Pearall with the Frio Masonic Lodge in charge. Interment was made in the Pearall cemetery.

The deceased is survived by his widow, two daughters Mrs. Chas. J. Monkhouse of Hondo and Mrs. Walter Farran of Rossville; two sisters, Mrs. J. M. Windrow of Pearall and Mrs. Rhea Nixon of San Antonio; and one brother, D. W. Hindes, of Hindes, Texas.

Wings of Victory

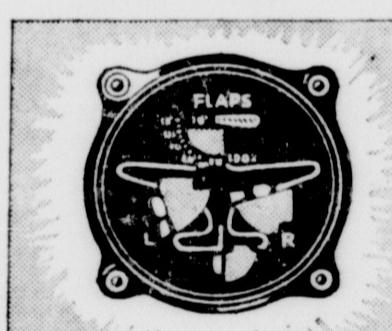

Electricity helps make America's war planes some of the world's most deadly weapons. Here are a few of the ways in which G-E equipment serves in the air.

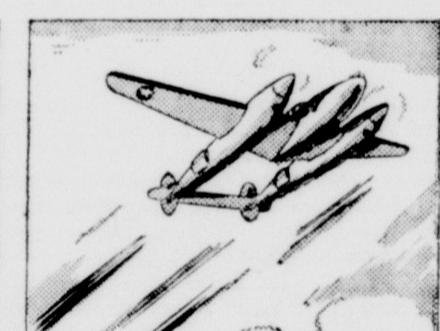

1. Lamps are the eyes of the plane at night, ranging in size from cockpit lamps no larger than a pea to landing lamps of more than half a million candlepower.

2. Radio combines the voice and the ears of the plane, allowing communication between the pilot and his squadron, and the ground and sea forces.

3. Instruments are the sensitive brain that relays messages to the pilot from all parts of the ship and helps him to control the plane in its flight.

4. Superchargers are the lungs of the plane, pumping extra oxygen to the carburetors, giving our planes the altitude so necessary to modern warfare.

MACHINE SHOPS SUBJECT TO PRICE CONTROL

Machine shops supplying automotive repair, maintenance and rebuilding services are subject to price controls of the Service Trades Price Regulation No. 165 and should file with the Medina County Car Price and Rationing Board statements of March prices as required by these regulations, and not send them to the Washington office the chairman advised today.

The announcement was made because many suppliers of automotive machine shop services, acting under the impression that they were covered by Maximum Price Regulation No. 136—Machines and Parts and Machinery Services—have gone to needless work sending to Washington the price lists required by that regulation.

Clearly covered under Regulation No. 165 are the services normally performed either for the retail or wholesale trade by concerns which specialize in such operations in connection with automotive vehicles as crank shaft regrinding, cylinder reboring, repairing and rebuilding automotive generators and starters, reconditioning carburetors, connecting rods, align boring of main bearings, cylinder head resurfacing and valve refacing.

Printed or mimeographed price lists such as are regularly distributed by such concerns to their customers may be used if the prices quoted are the highest prices actually charged in March 1942, and providing they contain an appropriate description of each service listed.

On all service work offered but not covered by specific price lists, the pricing method and rate, if any, used for such services during March, 1942, should be stated. Also included should be all customary allowances discounts and other price differentials which are customarily allowed or offered in March.

The Service Price Regulation requires that this statement be kept available for inspection by any person during ordinary business hours, and that a copy be on file with the local War Price and Rationing Board after September 10.

Copies of Maximum Price Regulation No. 165, as amended, can be obtained from the Medina County War Price and Rationing Board, and if the requirements are not thoroughly understood, competent advice and assistance may be obtained by writing to the state headquarters of the Office of Price Administration in Fort Worth.

MEDINA COUNTY WAR PRICE AND RATIONING BOARD.

PROCLAMATION

BY THE GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF TEXAS

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

Know ye, that I, Coke R. Stevenson, Governor of the State of Texas, do hereby order a General Election to be held throughout the State of Texas on Tuesday, the Third Day of November, A. D. 1942, for the election of members of the Legislature, State, District, County and Precinct officers, and for the adoption or rejection of the several proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Texas.

(Seal) In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto signed my name and caused the Seal of State to be affixed at my office in the City of Austin, Texas, this the 26th day of August, A. D. 1942.

COKE R. STEVENSON,

Governor of Texas.

By the Governor:

Wm. J. Lawson,

Secretary of State

Pursuant to the above Proclamation by His Excellency, Coke R. Stevenson, Governor of the State of Texas, and in compliance with Article 2947, Revised Civil Statutes, an election for all County and Precinct officers, as required by law, is hereby ordered to be held on November 3rd, A. D. 1942.

(Seal) ARTHUR H. ROTHE,

County Judge.

TO THE VOTERS OF COMMISSIONER PRE. NO. 2

At the request of many friends, I have consented to announce that I will run for Commissioner for Precinct No. 2 of this county to be elected at the General Election to be held on the 3rd day of November, A. D. 1942.

My name will not appear on the official ballot, hence it will be necessary for those who desire to vote for me to run a line through the name of the one whose name will appear on said ballot or ticket, and then write my name in with BLACK INK or PENCIL.

Your vote and support will be greatly appreciated.

H. J. BIPPERT.

THE STARK REALITIES

here and in England, millions of people seem to consider themselves completely qualified experts in military tactics and strategy. They know precisely what is needed, and they are convinced that if they were put in order, that widespread attitude could remedy matters in the United Nations' High Command. That aggressive demand that the aggressors be stopped in their tracks and the Americans immediately open a second front in Europe, the second front would give the second front immense benefit to the Allied cause.

It would divert men and materials from Hitler's African offensives. It would give the conquered people of Europe the opportunity to rise up against their conqueror and help defend their own country. It would mark the start of a new war effort to break Axis power must finally be broken.

That is the theory. In actual fact, the second front now is one of the most hazardous actions in all military history. According to all reports, the Germans have done wonders in fortifying continental positions. In France they have about 300,000 soldiers which have been rigorously trained in preparation for an invasion. These troops have equipment of the first quality and they have plenty of air support. Their supply lines are secure and they lie across land, not water. The Germans have a gigantic amount of heavy machinery, much of it taken from the First World War, along the French coast, and every possible invasion is a fortress.

A military history proves again that an over-water invasion of enemy territory is the most difficult of all martial operations—after their complete victory at Dunkirk, when British military power was all but destroyed, the Nazis didn't feel confident enough to make the attempt. The positions must be "softened" by days and perhaps weeks of fire—and guns do not exist to adequately shell the German positions from the British side of the Channel. As a substitute for dive bombers would have been used—and their losses would be enormous.

Losses in men which would be staggering when the stage of landing operations was reached, is also staggering. Without artillery support, the troops would have to advance against completely shielded defenses with a vast superiority in numbers. Writing in Collier's, W. E. Reynolds, one of the best men of war correspondents, is vivid and probably accurate when he says: "Let those who are loudest for the immediate establishment of a second front in Europe visualize for a moment what it means to the equipment and life. Let us visualize the waters of the English Channel as a substitute for the sea, running blood red under a moon, and let them visualize bodies of thousands of British and American soldiers floating in the waters. If the persuasive eloquence of the second-front brigade failed, no other result is possible."

It does not mean that a second front is impossible. To the completely informed military it is convinced that one will be established in time. But it cannot be until everything is ready. This means that, first, there must be more bombings of Germany. The Continent on the Cologne front means that Allied troops may create a second front in Germany at home.

Experts believe that airpower may create a second front look forward to a time when four, five thousand major raids will be used nightly in raids against the Axis. Major de Seversky is the most eloquent exponent of this and his recent best seller, "Through Air Power," is a strong work. The problems involved here are those of production and coordination—and the two are even more important than the first. We are producing on an ever-increasing scale, but have not yet solved the difficulties in taking them, their crews and their parts to battlefronts and keeping them in good condition.

The beet economy aids other industries: To refine a pound of beet sugar requires the consumption of one pound of coal. Millions of yards of cotton go into bags and filter cloth. Railroads estimate the beet crop to produce about $35 gross revenue to the carriers. Livestock and other industries are benefited by beets.

first as all too often they do for their own constituency.

What we need are fewer pressure groups and more town meetings. It is hard for a pressure group to thrive in its own community, if discussion is open. There is nothing so tongue-tieing as the steady stare of those who know you. And there is nothing more deflating to the ego than the common sense barb in a neighbor's homely phrase.

In democracy no one class or group should ever aim to be in control, for the American form of government was designed to do away with class. The best defense of America is a strong, educated, informed citizenry. And the best way to keep them informed is through the town meeting.

The town meeting gives the opportunity for men and women to hear authoritative statements, to join in open discussion. This is an American way of life, as opposed to the pressure group which is the personification of gang rule. This is the way to unity, not to rifts within the house of the nation. The Government may be the pilot, but it is the people who run the ship.

This is the people's war—not people in the proletarian sense—but in the ideal of democracy—a war of all the citizens of the nation, equal in the eyes of the law. In the town meeting the people can talk out their many problems, with all sides presented so that men may make their own conclusions and learn something of their neighbor's views. If men are free to talk, they can more clearly crystallize their own thoughts. They can learn to see their case as others see it, and there is time for compromise and change before the heat of combat.

A true democracy is an expression of identity of interests of all the people. The ideal of a democracy is not merely tolerant of one another, but of people working together without regard to class, race, creed or color. To keep this ideal before the people there is no better way than the town meeting. This is the American way.

THE IMPORTANCE OF BEET SUGAR.

The present sugar situation emphasizes the importance of sugar production in continental United States, without which the rationing program would have been far more severe, according to a statement by the United States Beet Sugar Association. In 1942, according to the estimate of the Office of Price Administration, beet sugar will for the first time be the nation's largest single source of supply. Anticipated production of 2,000,000 tons of sugar from the growing crop of beets represents an amount sufficient to provide the current weekly ration of eight ounces for every man, woman, and child in the country.

People who erroneously confuse the little red garden beet with the long, tapering silver-colored sugar beet, will find beet sugar giving complete satisfaction for every sugar purpose. People who don't know one beet from another at least have the satisfaction that science doesn't know one sugar from another, provided both are pure sucrose, extracted either from sugar beets or sugar cane.

One of the most efficient converters of solar energy known to science is the sugar beet produces more food per acre, in concentrated sugar and meat, than any crop extensively grown in the Temperate Zone. Beet sugar is produced in 27 countries. Heaviest emphasis on beet culture is in areas where the problem of supplying maximum food per acre is most critical. Before invasion, Russia produced more beet sugar than any country in the world. Germany is second. The United States is third, with thousands of sugar beet farmers in 19 states, served by 85 processing factories.

Importance of the sugar beet cannot be appraised in terms of sugar alone. After the sugar has been extracted, the beet by-products, consisting of pulp, top foliage, and molasses, are fed to livestock with farm-grown hay and grain. The beet rotation enables the farmer to market his entire diversified output in the form of concentrated sugar and meat, and restore animal waste products to the soil, enriching his entire farm.

By-products alone of an average acre of sugar beets produce more meat than the entire product of an average acre of corn. Trial and error have proved sugar beets to be the most dependable crop extensively grown on western reclamation projects.

The beet economy aids other industries: To refine a pound of beet sugar requires the consumption of one pound of coal. Millions of yards of cotton go into bags and filter cloth.

Railroads estimate the beet crop to produce about $35 gross revenue to the carriers.

Livestock and other industries are benefited by beets.

LOVE IS BLIND AND SHOULD BE

My dear little four year darling
Stood on the round of my chair,
And looked into my eyes
And gently stroked my hair.
He said, "I love you, mama!"
And putting a finger on my eyes,
He said things that made me think.
My baby was getting quite wise.

This is what he told me
As we put finger to each place,
"Your nose is pretty, your teeth are pretty—
Every bit of your old face;"

And as I looked down at him,
Smiling up with eyes so kind,
I said: "I'm glad, my darling,
After all, love is blind!"

I'VE LEARNED TO MURDER

By Jetty Felps

After having taught school and gone to college for about twenty-five years, my son, aged nine, and I headed for the ranch and the simple life, but we found it anything but simple. One reason for that was that the farm and ranch, though a place of many possibilities and potentialities, was badly run-down because of lack of care.

Believing that a farm and ranch should have everything, we bought chickens, hogs, cattle and sheep; but I swore off on goats until we at least had better fences. My husband stayed in the valley as superintendent of a school there. And although I had lived on a farm in my childhood, I had not been responsible for its management. While teaching, we had had few chickens to kill; but here on the ranch, I learned to cut off chickens' heads without a qualm.

And cats? I had always loved cats, but not all the cats that were dumped on our place! Kittens were running all over the place, standing at the kitchen door, seeing which could meow loudest. My love for cats turned to hate. I learned to murder! With the help of my son, we cut off the heads of baby kittens, and shot the grown cats. Here we were murdering, and thinking little of it!

Believe me, life begins not at forty, but when a fellow moves to a farm and ranch! There is always something to do! And since one is always tired on a ranch, he can lie down and sleep and let everything go topsy-turvy, die, or get killed. But to make a go of it, a person will always have something to do—jobs just pile up!

I never could stand to see anything go hungry and cold; but I learned on the farm that I couldn't possibly harbor and feed all the cats thrust upon me; that the more I fed our stock, the less they would leave the house to graze; in fact, what I called my out-cattle, which I left to rustle for themselves, looked much better than those who stood around the house, bellowing at me for feed, everytime they got a peep at me. When we first went to the ranch, son and I talked of what pets our stock were, and we spent much time feeding and petting them; but when the newness wore off, we came to "admire" the stock that went on about a brute's business, that of filling his belly, sleeping and drinking.

Just try being a gentleman or lady farmer, and hired help will let things go to ruin! How true it is: if you want things done right, do them yourself. Things come up on a farm that demand immediate attention. Although I don't pretend to be a doctor, I have delivered many a baby-lamb, and by doing so have saved the mother. I believe I can truthfully say in my few years on the farm and ranch that I have learned more than in my whole life, though most of my other days were spent in schools and colleges. I know that I've lived more in less time! I have learned that even brutes appreciate shelter and good treatment, and this fact has caused me to be more lenient with humanity, many humans being little above brute creation. In fact, some dogs we have owned and trained appeared to have more sense than some people I have known, who seemed to revel in filth and dirt. The dogs didn't. It also hurt me to see our stock have better shelter than some families living in tents.

At times, conditions on the farm get so serious, they are funny! We don't know which to do; to laugh, or to cry, or to "cuss!" One thing is certain; if one thing tears loose on a farm, be sure everything will! Yes, sir, when it rains, it floods! And if you have watergaps, you know what a flood means—a merry mix-up—your stock going where they should not, and other folks' stock doing the same.

We have two breeds of cattle; the Hereford and the Jersey. I keep my Jerseys pure for dairy purposes. What sense is there in milking three or four cows when one Jersey will give as much milk and butter as three or four of the beef type? We try to get things done with the least effort. We mean to learn to run the farm, not let the farm run us—wild!

I have learned that out among stock, wild life, and mud that keeping house is not what it is in town or city. A person can not step out when it rains that his feet don't get muddy. Farmers can't possibly have paved walks to pig pens (perhaps moveable), the hay stacks, and where such key maybe stands. At first, I tried to have carpets; I gave that idea up for floors easily cleaned. Unless a farm runs its owner, he must learn to save all labor possible; and still there will always be plenty to do, provided the owner is not a Rip Van.

I suppose I was born with a weak stomach, but the farm and ranch is making an ostrich of my stomach. Even yet, though, when there are several young calves at one time, pens smelly with young calves and their leavings, pails of pure-old beastlings milk, ready for the pigs, I sometimes turn away from it all to empty my breakfast on the ground, along with the other non-appetizing conglomeration. Then my son may ask, "Can't you take it, Master of Arts?" For my son thinks it amazing the things I can and will do in comparison with the average woman, even though I do have my two college degrees. But he understands why I like to be a "lady-farmer," even though, like other women, I could sit in town, manicure my nails, and "bridge" with other women.

We've been here for seven years now. I wonder if every farmer has as many problems and difficulties as we have had! Probably not, for we may have tried to accomplish more than many of them. Suffice it to say, we've built fences, brought fields from cockle burr and Johnson grass patches into loamy, tillable soils, improved our cattle and sheep, cut hundreds of acres of cedar, improved our pasture by planting grass seeds, planted orchards, and built a two-story rock home, with running water and electricity, and we're three miles from a town!

Now that the war is on, many of our friends wish that they were in our shoes; for they know that there is not so much danger of bombing and going hungry on a farm. There are so many places to hide here on our ranch! Hitler would have a hard time finding us here in some of our cedar brakes! In times like these, I'm doubly thankful that we have a farm and ranch on which we may "kid ourselves" into believing that we are gentlemen and ladies! We are made to realize, as never before, how necessary are the people on the farms and ranches.

THE FARM ROADSIDE STAND

By V. M. Couch

The success or failure of a stand by the roadside depends more upon the quality of the stuff sold than any other one thing. The service given and the friendliness of the person in charge, of course, has much to do in drawing trade. The nearby surroundings, if clean, sanitary and free of any objectionable odors, unsightly buildings and too many unrelated signs, also has much to do in attracting favorable attention.

Establishing and holding trade is based upon what the customer wants and gets and not upon that which the producer desires to get rid of. A man stated to me that he purchased seven bushels of peaches last year at a stand and after arriving home found three baskets unfit for any use. A stand selling this kind of stuff has no business being in existence and will not be very long.

A wayside market in a good location has many exclusive advantages. The overhead expenses are extremely low, there is always plenty of room for display and for parking of cars. It is possible to sell some farm products at the roadside for more than they would sell for in the city market and still sell for less than the retail city price.

The roadside stand is at a disadvantage in some ways. It often happens that some kinds of fruit ripen too fast to dispose of in a small way. Merchants have an advantage by being located in centers with other stores around them where patrons can go and have all their wants supplied on one trip, while the farmer is somewhat isolated in a commercial sense, and now for a while, not so many people will be driving cars into the country on account of gas rationing and shortage of tires.

At times, conditions on the farm get so serious, they are funny! We don't know which to do; to laugh, or to cry, or to "cuss!" One thing is certain; if one thing tears loose on a farm, be sure everything will! Yes, sir, when it rains, it floods! OUR FLAG
By Louise Nelson

I see it waving bravely up above,
The dear old flag that we all greatly love.

Its stripes portray the colonies
Once land of wilderness and trees.

The states are shown by stars of white
(They seem to gleam with fall of night.)

The field of blue on which they rest
Means loyal . . . shown by rigid test.

That flag means liberty and joy.
A chance for every girl and boy.

What matter lack of sweets and tires?
When brotherhood our flag inspires?

A land where poor men rise to fame,
Where government protects the lame.

The land where plumbers read good books
Where laymen help to capture crooks.

Where Jew and Gentile bare the head
At sight of Blue and White and Red.

FAITH

I thank Thee, Lord, for simple faith
That binds me close to Thee;
It gives me strength to carry on
When health deserts me.

Oft times the road is rough and steep
And thorns are everywhere.
The storms of life beset me sore,—
Wild demons madly glare;

But faith in Thee restores my soul
And all within is calm,
For brightly shines the sun above;
Thy dew is healing balm.

Near pitfalls deep, life's pathway goes
And fog o'er chasms lie,
While breakers dash on rocks below,
Where many fall and die.

But faith in thee holds me secure—
My feet with safety tread
With firm assurance, day by day,
The Better Way, instead.

With thankful heart I breathe a prayer
And thank Thee, Christ, my God,
That Thou hast kept me free from harm,

Protected by Thy rod.

TRUTH'S ORE

Some day as sure as winds must veer,
As seasons change within the year,
So hate shall wither, disappear
To blight no more.

As April rains renew the birth
Of dormant seed within the earth,
So good shall come and add its worth
To human store.

As Summer days enhance the yield
Of every well attended field,
So love shall solve and hold revealed
Truth's precious ore.

MACHINE SHOPS SUBJECT TO PRICE CONTROL

Machine shops supplying automotive repair, maintenance and rebuilding services are subject to price controls of the Service Trades Price Regulation No. 165 and should file with the Medina County Car Price and Rationing Board statements of March prices as required by these regulations, and not send them to the Washington office the chairman advised today.

The announcement was made because many suppliers of automotive machine shop services, acting under the impression that they were covered by Maximum Price Regulation No. 136—Machines and Parts and Machinery Services—have gone to needless work sending to Washington the price lists required by that regulation.

Clearly covered under Regulation No. 165 are the services normally performed either for the retail or wholesale trade by concerns which specialize in such operations in connection with automotive vehicles as: crank shaft regrinding, cylinder reboring, repairing and rebuilding automotive generators and starters, reconditioning carburetors, connecting rods, align boring of main bearings, cylinder head resurfacing and valve refacing.

Printed or mimeographed price lists such as are regularly distributed by such concerns to their customers may be used if the prices quoted are the highest prices actually charged in March 1942, and providing they contain an appropriate description of each service listed.

On all service work offered but not covered by specific price lists, the pricing method and rate, if any, used for such services during March, 1942, should be stated. Also included should be all customary allowances, discounts and other price differentials which are customarily allowed or offered in March.

The Service Price Regulation requires that this statement be kept available for inspection by any person during ordinary business hours, and that a copy be on file with the local War Price and Rationing Board after September 10.

Copies of Maximum Price Regulation No. 165, as amended, can be obtained from the Medina County War Price and Rationing Board, and if the requirements are not thoroughly understood, competent advice and assistance may be obtained by writing to the state headquarters of the Office of Price Administration in Fort Worth.

PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF TEXAS

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

Know ye, that I, Coke R. Stevenson, Governor of the State of Texas, do hereby order a General Election to be held throughout the State of Texas on Tuesday, the Third Day of November, A. D. 1942, for the election of members of the Legislature, State, District, County and Precinct officers, and for the adoption or rejection of the several proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Texas.

(Seal) In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto signed my name and caused the Seal of State to be affixed at my office in the City of Austin, Texas, this the 26th day of August, A. D. 1942.

COKE R. STEVENSON,
Governor of Texas.

By the Governor:
Wm. J. Lawson,

Secretary of State

Pursuant to the above Proclamation by His Excellency Coke R. Stevenson, Governor of the State of Texas, and in compliance with Article 2947, Revised Civil Statutes, an election for all County and Precinct officers, as required by law, is hereby ordered to be held on November 3rd, A. D. 1942.

(Seal) ARTHUR H. ROTHE,
County Judge.

TO THE VOTERS OF COMMISSIONER PRE. NO. 2

At the request of many friends, I have consented to announce that I will run for Commissioner for Precinct No. 2 of this county to be elected at the General Election to be held on the 3rd day of November, A. D. 1942.

My name will not appear on the official ballot, hence it will be necessary for those who desire to vote for me to run a line through the name of the one whose name will appear on said ballot or ticket, and then write my name in with BLACK INK or PENCIL.

Your vote and support will be greatly appreciated.

THE STARK REALITIES

in here and in England, millions of people seem to consider themselves completely qualified experts in military tactics and strategy. They know precisely what is with the United Nations' High and they are convinced they could remedy matters in order if they were put in. That widespread attitude gives the aggressive demand that the second front would open a second front in theory, the second front would immense benefit to the Allied It would divert men and materials from Hitler's and African offensives. It give the conquered people of their opportunity to rise up and their conqueror and help defeat him. It would mark the start real effort to break Axis power where Axis power must really be broken.

much for theory. In actual opening the second front now be one of the most hazardous actions in all military history. According to all reports, the Germans have done wonders in fortifying continental positions. In France they have about 300,000 sea-troops which have been rigorously trained in preparation for an invasion. These troops have equipment of the first and they have plenty of air support. Their supply lines are set and they lie across land, not water. The Germans have a gigantic amount of heavy machinery, much of it taken from the Line, along the French coast and every possible invasion is a fortress.

military history proves again an over-water invasion of held territory is the most difficult of all martial operations—after their complete victory at Dunkirk when British military power was all but destroyed, the Nazis didn't feel confident enough to make the attempt. The positions must be "softened" by days and perhaps weeks of fire—and guns do not exist to adequately shell the German positions from the British side of the Channel. As a substitute for dive bombers would have used—and their losses would be enormous.

losses in men which would be in the stage of landing operations reached, is also staggering. Without artillery support, the troops would have to advance against completely shielded defenses with a vast superiority in numbers. Writing in Collier's, Reynolds, one of the best men of war correspondents, is a vivid and probably accurate when he says: "Let those stoutest for the immediate establishment of a second front in us... visualize for a moment in equipment and life. Let us visualize the waters of the running blood red under a moon, and let them visualize bodies of thousands of British American soldiers floating in waters. If the persuasive eloquence of the second-front brigade showed, no other result is possible."

It does not mean that a second front is impossible. To the completely informed military it is convinced that one will be made in time. But it cannot be made until everything is ready means that, first, there must be more bombings of Germany the Continent on the Cologne front. It means that Allied troops are given more and better equipment than they now possess means that ways must be found of causing distracting trouble Germany at home.

Some experts believe that airpower may create a second front very soon, for a time when four, five thousand major raids will be used nightly in raids on the Axis. Major de Seversky, the most eloquent exponent of this and his recent best seller, "Story Through Air Power," is a strong work. The problems involved here are those of production and coordination—and the two are even more important than the first. We are producing on an ever-increasing scale.

At any event, many of those who are a second front at once are uninforme first as all too often they do for their own constituency.

What we need are fewer pressure groups and more town meetings. It is hard for a pressure group to thrive in its own community, if discussion is open. There is nothing so tongue-tieing as the steady stare of those who know you. And there is nothing more deflating to the ego than the common sense barb in a neighbor's homely phrase.

In a democracy no one class or group should ever aim to be in control, for the American form of government was designed to do away with class. The best defense of America is a strong, educated, informed citizenry. And the best way to keep them informed is through the town meeting.

The town meeting gives the opportunity for men and women to hear authoritative statements, to join in open discussion. This is an American way of life, as opposed to the pressure group which is the personalification of gang rule. This is the way to unity, not to rifts within the house of the nation. The Government may be the pilot, but it is the people who run the ship.

This is the people's war—not people in the proletarian sense—but in the ideal of democracy—a war of all the citizens of the nation, equal in the eyes of the law. In the town meeting the people can talk out their many problems, with all sides presented so that men may make their own conclusions and learn something of their neighbor's views. If men are free to talk, they can more clearly crystallize their own thoughts. They can learn to see their case as others see it, and there is time for compromise and change before the heat of combat.

A true democracy is an expression of identity of interests of all the people. The ideal of a democracy is not merely tolerant of one another, but of people working together without regard to class, race, creed or color. To keep this ideal before the people there is no better way than the town meeting. This is the American way.

THE IMPORTANCE OF BEET SUGAR.

The present sugar situation emphasizes the importance of sugar production in continental United States, without which the rationing program would have been far more severe, according to a statement by the United States Beet Sugar Association. In 1942, according to the estimate of the Office of Price Administration, beet sugar will for the first time be the nation's largest single source of supply. Anticipated production of 2,000,000 tons of sugar from the growing crop of beets represents an amount sufficient to provide the current weekly ration of eight ounces for every man, woman, and child in the country.

People who erroneously confuse the little red garden beet with the long, tapering silver-colored sugar beet, will find beet sugar giving complete satisfaction for every sugar purpose. People who don't know one beet from another at least have the satisfaction that science doesn't know one sugar from another, provided both are pure sucrose, extracted either from sugar beets or sugar cane.

One of the most efficient converters of solar energy known to science, the sugar beet produces more food per acre, in concentrated sugar and meat, than any crop extensively grown in the Temperate Zone. Beet sugar is produced in 27 countries. Heaviest emphasis on beet culture is in areas where the problem of supplying maximum food per acre is most critical. Before invasion, Russia produced more beet sugar than any country in the world. Germany is second. The United States is third, with thousands of sugar beet farmers in 19 states, served by 85 processing factories.

Importance of the sugar beet cannot be appraised in terms of sugar alone. After the sugar has been extracted, the beet by-products, consisting of pulp, top foliage, and molasses, are fed to livestock with farm-grown hay and grain. The beet rotation enables the farmer to market his entire diversified output in the form of concentrated sugar and meat, and restore animal waste products to the soil, enriching his entire farm.

At times, conditions on the farm get so serious, they are funny! We don't know which to do; to laugh, or to cry, or to "cuss!" One thing is certain; if one thing tears loose on a farm, be sure everything will! Yes, sir, when it rains, it floods! And if you have watergaps, you know what flood means—a merry mix-up—your stock going where they should not, and other folks' stock doing the same.

We have two breeds of cattle; the Hereford and the Jersey. I keep my Jerseys pure for dairy purposes. What sense is there in milking three or four cows when one Jersey will give as much milk and butter as any other group of cattle? The fundamental weakness of the democracies is their vulnerability to pressure groups, demanding special concessions or special protection for their own interests. Time and again we have seen the devastating effect these groups breed intolerance and war time it is deadly.

LOVE IS BLIND AND SHOULD BE

My dear little four year darling
Stood on the round of my chair,
And looked into my eyes
And gently stroked my hair.
He said, "I love you, mama!"
And putting a finger on my eyes,
He said things that made me think
My baby was getting quite wise.

This is what he told me
As he put finger to each place,
"Your nose is pretty, your teeth are pretty—
Every bit of your old face;"
And as I looked down at him,
Smiling up with eyes so kind,
I said: "I'm glad, my darling,
After all, love is blind!"

—JETTIE FELPS.

I'VE LEARNED TO MURDER

By Jettie Felps

After having taught school and gone to college for about twenty-five years, my son, aged nine, and I headed for the ranch and the simple life, but we found it anything but simple. One reason for that was that the farm and ranch, though a place of many possibilities and potentialities, was badly run-down because of lack of care.

Believing that a farm and ranch should have everything, we bought chickens, hogs, cattle and sheep; but I swore off on goats until we at least had better fences. My husband stayed in the valley as superintendent of a school there. And although I had lived on a farm in my childhood, I had not been responsible for its management. While teaching, we had had few chickens to kill; but here on the ranch, I learned to cut off chickens' heads without a qualm.

And cats? I had always loved cats, but not all the cats that were dumped on our place! Kittens were running all over the place, standing at the kitchen door, seeing which could mew loudest. My love for cats turned to hate. I learned to murder! With the help of my son, we cut off the heads of baby kittens, and shot the grown cats. Here we were murdering, and thinking little of it!

Believe me, life begins not at forty, but when a fellow moves to a farm and ranch! There is always something to do! And since one is always tired on a ranch, he can lie down and sleep and let everything go topsy-turvy, die, or get killed.

But to make a go of it, a person will always have something to do—jobs just pile up!

I never could stand to see anything go hungry and cold; but I learned on the farm that I couldn't possibly harbor and feed all the cats thrust upon me; that the more I fed our stock, the less they would leave the house to graze; in fact, what I called my out-cattle, which I left to rustle for themselves, looked much better and stood the winter better than those who stood around the house, bellowing at me for feed, everytime they got a peep at me. When we first went to the ranch, son and I talked of what pets our stock were, and we spent much time feeding and petting them; but when the newness wore off, we came to "admire" the stock that went on about a brute's business, that of filling his belly, sleeping and drinking.

Just try being a gentleman or lady farmer, and hired help will let things go to ruin! How true it is: if you want things done right, do them yourself. Things come up on a farm that demand immediate attention. Although I don't pretend to be a doctor, I have delivered many a baby lamb, and by doing so have saved the mother. I believe I can truthfully say in my few years on the farm and ranch that I have learned more than in my whole life, though most of my other days were spent in schools and colleges. I know that I've lived more in less time! I have learned that even brutes appreciate shelter and good treatment, and this fact has caused me to be more lenient with humanity, many humans being little above brute creation. In fact, some dogs we have owned and trained appeared to have more sense than some people I have known, who seemed to revel in filth and dirt. The dogs didn't. It also hurt me to see our stock have better shelter than some families living in tents.

At times, conditions on the farm get so serious, they are funny! We don't know which to do; to laugh, or to cry, or to "cuss!" One thing is certain; if one thing tears loose on a farm, be sure everything will! Yes, sir, when it rains, it floods! And if you have watergaps, you know what flood means—a merry mix-up—your stock going where they should not, and other folks' stock doing the same.

three or four of the beef type? We try to get things done with the least effort. We mean to learn to run the farm, not let the farm run us—wild!

I have learned that out among stock, wild life, and mud that keeping house is not what it is in town or city. A person can not step out when it rains that his feet don't get muddy. Farmers can't possibly have paved walks to pig pens (perhaps moveable), the hay stacks, and where such key maybe stands. At first, I tried to have carpets; I gave that idea up for floors easily cleaned. Unless a farm runs its owner, he must learn to save all labor possible; and still there will always be plenty to do, provided the owner is not a Rip Van Winkle.

I suppose I was born with a weak stomach, but the farm and ranch is making an ostrich of my stomach. Even yet, though, when there are several young calves at one time pens smelly with young calves and their leavings, pails of pure-old beastlings milk, ready for the pigs, I sometimes turn away from it all to empty my breakfast on the ground, along with the other non-appetizing conglomeration. Then my son may ask: "Can't you take it, Master of Arts?"

For my son thinks it amazing the things I can and will do in comparison with the average woman, even though I do have my two college degrees. But he understands why I like to be a "lady-farmer," even though, like other women, I could sit in town, manicure my nails, and "bridge" with other women.

We've been here for seven years now. I wonder if every farmer has as many problems and difficulties as we have had! Probably not, for we may have tried to accomplish more than many of them. Suffice it to say, we've built fences, brought fields from cockle burr and Johnson grass patches into loamy, tillable soils, improved our cattle and sheep, cut hundreds of acres of cedar, improved our pasture by planting grass seeds, planted orchards, and built a two-story rock home, with running water and electricity, and we're three miles from a town!

Now that the war is on, many of our friends wish that they were in our shoes; for they know that there is not so much danger of bombing and going hungry on a farm. There are so many places to hide here on our ranch! Hitler would have a hard time finding us here in some of our cedar brakes! In times like these, I'm doubly thankful that we have a farm and ranch on which we may "kid ourselves" into believing that we are gentlemen and ladies! We are made to realize, as never before, how necessary are the people on the farms and ranches.

By V. M. Couch

The success or failure of a stand by the roadside depends more upon the quality of the stuff sold than any other one thing. The service given and the friendliness of the person in charge, of course, has much to do in drawing trade. The nearby surroundings, if clean, sanitary and free of any objectionable odors, unsightly buildings and too many unrelated signs, also has much to do in attracting favorable attention.

Establishing and holding trade is based upon what the customer wants and gets and not upon that which the producer desires to get rid of. A man stated to me that he purchased seven bushels of peaches last year at a stand and after arriving home found three baskets unfit for any use. A stand selling this kind of stuff has no business being in existence and will not be very long.

A roadside stand is at a disadvantage in some ways. It often happens that some kinds of fruit ripen too fast to dispose of in a small way. Merchants have an advantage by being located in centers with other stores around them where patrons can go and have all their wants supplied on one trip, while the farmer is somewhat isolated in a commercial sense, and now for a while, not so many people will be driving cars into the country on account of gas rationing and shortage of tires.

Jacksonville, (Cherokee county) city commissioners recently authorized the purchase of 66.7 acres of land as the site for a permanent location of the local tomato disease laboratory and experiment station. The land is to be turned over to the State, which in turn is to do necessary construction work to house the station.

D'HANIS, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1942

FATHER ZUBER CALLED BY DEATH

Members of the Catholic parishes of D'Hanis were saddened last Friday morning when news was received that their esteemed pastor, Reverend Eugene Zuber had died of a heart ailment, which had been very severe for the last three weeks. His death occurred at the age of 62 in Santa Rosa Hospital, San Antonio, at 6:30 on the morning of October 9, 1942.

Father Zuber who was a native of Benfeld, Alsace, had been pastor of Holy Cross Church and Queen of Peace Church since he came here from Lockhart in May, 1935. During the past seven years he labored zealously among the people entrusted to his sacerdotal care, a living example of piety and integrity. Gifted with a brilliant mind, he was especially learned in philosophy, history, and theology, and was a master of several languages. His solicitude for boys in the army endeared him to many.

He is survived by a brother, Louis Zuber, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who was at his bedside during the last days of his sufferings. The body lay in state in Holy Cross Church from 4:30 P. M. Saturday until Sunday afternoon. At 10 o'clock Sunday morning, Very Rev. Jacob Lenzen, dean, of Castroville, offered a Requiem High Mass, which was attended by a large number of parishioners as well as out-of-town friends. Father Lenzen also preached an impressive sermon.

At 8 P. M. Sunday the Rosary was recited in the Angelus Chapel in San Antonio, where the body rested until the following morning. On Monday at 10 A. M. Very Rev. Lenzen was the celebrant of a Solemn Mass of Requiem in the Shrine of the Little Flower. A large group of D'Hanis people motored to the city to pay their last respects to their pastor, while about 75 priests were in the sanctuary. Msgr. Geehan preached the funeral sermon, and the Gregorian music was sung by a choir of Carmelite priests.

Burial was in the Archdiocesan San Fernando Cemetery, as Father Zuber had requested, next to the grave of his sister, who died in 1934. Pall bearers were men of Holy Cross Parish as follows: John B. Nester, Jos. Koch, Matthias Koch, Henry Weynand, Ben Koch and Maurice Koch.

Sgt. Hilmar J. Koch of Camp Claiborne, La. was at home on a three-day pass, returning to his post Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ruderger had as guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Theo Prinz, Mrs. Henry Collins, and Mr. Hugo Rimkus of San Antonio.

The following boys have enlisted as airplane mechanics in the Army Air Force: Elmer Keller, Charles Saathoff, and Julius Reitzer. They left Wednesday for Dodd Field.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Huser and family Sunday were Mr. Henry Postert and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Neuman of San Antonio and Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Brownning and grandson of Sabinal.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nester are the proud parents of a baby daughter, born at Medina Hospital on Thursday October 8, 1942.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Huser have received a letter from their eldest son, Pvt. Herbert Huser, who is now in Australia. He says, he likes his new station and is trying to get used to Australian customs. Pvt. Herman Huser, their second son, still writes from North Ireland.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Poerner and daughter, Melverda, spent Sunday at Castroville.

Pvt. Richard Chandler arrived Sunday from Camp Robinson, Ark., to be present at the funeral of Father Zuber. Pvt. Chandler is spending most of the week here before returning to duty.

BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Ed Finger was hostess to three tables of bridge last Wednesday afternoon. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Hy. Biry for high and Miss Cornelia Koch for second high. Mrs. Bill Nehr won high among the guests. The party included Mesdames Herman Ney, Ben Koch, Hy. Biry, Eric Rothe, Reilly Carle Robt. Zuerbueler, Bill Nehr, Herman Fohn, M. A. Zinsmeyer, Louis Carle, Jr., and Misses Tya Rothe and Cornelia Koch.

Corporal Rogers, the bridegroom, is a clerk in the orderly room of the 838th School Squadron.

NOTICE TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE CASTROVILLE MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

At the regular meeting on Friday, October 2nd, 1942, it was resolved that due to the imminence of gas rationing in this State that many members are hoarding gasoline. Further that this hoarding will jeopardize the premises and the lives of all members of the insured families if this continues and much gasoline is allowed to accumulate. If excessive dwelling and barn fires are caused by careless hoarding of gasoline, it may seriously affect the financial stability of this company. Therefore, it was moved and seconded that this company will not consider itself liable for payment of any insurance when it can be proven that the source of the fire is traceable to excessive quantities stored in or near the insured properties or property. Further that this be incorporated in the bylaws.
